Latest Information from CAPCA

The Department of Pesticide Regulation is seeking nominations for the 2023 IPM Achievement Awards.

California Environmental Protection Agency
 Department of Pesticide Regulation  www.cdpr.ca.gov  achieve@cdpr.ca.gov

Farmers, producers, growers, and urban applicators in California are working hard to effectively use integrated pest management (IPM) to safely grow our food and safeguard green spaces. Our members should be recognized for abiding by IPM principles.

We're urging members to apply for the Department of Pesticide Regulation's IPM Achievement Award. The award recognizes individuals and organizations who are leaders in the use of safe, sustainable, and reduced-risk pest management practices.

To nominate an individual or organization for the award, go to www.cdpr.ca.gov and fill out the online nomination form

Anyone can submit a nomination. The deadline for submissions is June 30, 2023. DPR will announce award recipients in 2024. For additional information on the IPM Achievement Award, go to www.cdpr.ca.gov.

We hope you consider nominating your own organization or another to recognize our industry's efforts to promote safe, sustainable, and reduced-risk pest management methods in California.

If you would like CAPCA to review your application, please email alexis@capca.com.

LOOK FOR THE MARK

The "CE Hours Reported" mark was created to help CAPCA members register for education with confidence that their completed CE hours will be reported and appear on their official printouts promptly. Your hours and timely renewal are important to CAPCA; you will start to see this mark appear for meetings whose sponsors have committed to report your attendance within 7 business days of the meeting/online CE completion.
