INTRODUCING OUR ENHANCED PCA RENEWAL SUMMARY

Hurry, PCA license renewals are now open! Renew with DPR before they raise the price on August 1st.

Due to regulatory renewal changes in 2024, PCAs are now required to input all their CE course data directly into DPR's form LIC-141. Any course summary not entered into this form will be rejected by DPR. You do not need to submit individual verifications of attendance (VOAs). Retrieve the entire PCA renewal packet from DPR here.

However, there's good news for CAPCA PCAs, as they are covered by this change. Active PCA members of CAPCA can download a pre-filled DPR form LIC-141 from their Member Dashboard under "DPR Renewal Summary." This pre-filled form contains all the CE course records that were submitted either to the legacy CECPM* system

(Scantron) or to CAPCA's new CE Hours Reported tracking system, combined into one place.

If you have received a copy of this "DPR Renewal Summary" from CAPCA.com before June 7th, 2024, we advise you to return and receive a fresh copy now. This will ensure that you have the most up-to-date, comprehensive, and accurate information.

If any course is missing from the pre-filled form, PCAs are encouraged to provide as much information as possible in the provided form for missing CE courses.

*CECPM does not report the sponsor name, so you will need to write this in.

FIRST DETECTION OF RED LEAF BLOTCH: A NEW DISEASE OF ALMOND IN CALIFORNIA

Background

Red Leaf Blotch (RLB) caused by the fungal pathogen Polystigma amygdalinum is one of the most important leaf diseases currently affecting almond trees in the Mediterranean basin, particularly in Spain, and regions of the Middle East. In late May 2024, unusual symptoms on leaves, including yellow spots and orange to dark red-brown blotches, were detected in an almond orchard (Nonpareil, Monterey and Fritz) on the border of Merced and Madera counties.
