Make sure your 2024 CAPCA Membership is up to date to receive

DPR CE RENEWAL UPDATE

We're streamlining your CE hours reporting for license renewal! Both your hours from the legacy CECPM ("Scantron") system and recent hours from CAPCA's new CE Hours the discounted Member price! There will NOT be price adjustments after you purchase a Conference ticket.

The room block is open. As in past years, each attendee registration is allowed one room in the block. Registration does not guarantee a room. CAPCA encourages you to register as soon as possible if you require one. If you need additional rooms, you must buy additional registrations. No exceptions.

BRING YOUR GROWER TO CONFERENCE 2024!

CAPCA has introduced a new registration option in celebration of the 50th Annual Conference in Anaheim, CA, this year and is offering a 1-Day Pass on Sunday, October 13th, 2024, for attendees who cannot make the full Conference program. Pricing for the 1-Day Pass is $160.00 for the day and entitles the attendee to receive credit for any continuing education they attend, as well as participate in the Welcome Reception that evening.

STUDENT NETWORKING EVENT

Phase 2 Applications are open now through August 15, 2024. They are open to college/university students studying to become PCAs. Priority will be given to second-, third-, and final-year students. Learn More

2024 DPR IPM ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

The California Department of Pesticide Regulation (DPR) is accepting nominations for their annual Integrated Pest Management (IPM) Achievement Awards through June 30, 2024!

The DPR IPM Achievement Awards honor the innovations and achievements of individuals and organizations leading in the adoption of safe, effective, and sustainable IPM practices in agricultural, urban, and wildland settings throughout California. IPM—any approach that uses the least toxic, effective method to solve pest problems—is a foundational element of the state’s approach to accelerate a systemwide transition to safer, more sustainable pest management.

We are seeking nominations that reflect IPM and SPM practices and leadership by and for Californians of all cultural and economic backgrounds, and inclusive of all settings where pests need to be managed, including urban centers, agricultural areas, and wildlands. Examples of IPM practices used by past recipients include managing a successful regenerative farm, applying new technology to traditional IPM techniques, and facilitating pest management communication and education for urban settings.

Do you know of an organization or individual that belongs on DPR’s list of over 170 award recipients? Nominate them by completing a short submission form on the DPR website.

Reported system will now be consolidated into one comprehensive report. This will be automatically pre-filled on the DPR form LIC-141 to meet new regulatory requirements. If you notice any missing courses, please provide us with the CE sponsor’s information so we can ensure all your hours are accurately reported.

Visit the new DPR Renewal Hub for the latest information related to your license.
